A Message From The President...

Dear Friends and Neighbors,

It is an honor and a privilege for me to serve as your HOA President for 2022. I would like to welcome the new Board of Directors and together, as a new team, we anticipate and are excited for the new year. As I promised, we will be a completely open and transparent body and will readily embrace new ideas and welcome improvements to old ones. As I also have discussed, we as a body need your help to make the new year fun and successful. We encourage folks to step up as hosts and volunteers to bring ideas to fruition. We CANNOT do this alone.

Hopefully, in 2022, we will be able to say that COVID is behind us and we can return to normal. The Harvest Dance, the New Year's Eve Dance, and the recent breakfast have all been a step in the right direction and we intend on seeing this trend continue.

It was great seeing such a huge crowd at our annual meeting, but traditionally, the attendance drops off considerably for the remainder of the year. We have a tremendous amount of new information and ideas to bring forth to the residents in the coming months so I strongly encourage you to attend.

Questions or comments, please feel free to stop by, give me a call, or see me out and about the community.

Clark Smith

Debi Novak and Nancy Henne would like to thank all the residents for their votes for the Christmas Decorating contest.

Karen and I want to thank everyone who helped make our country breakfast a success. Our crew of Judy Geiger, Karen and Dave Butcher, Shea and Phil Greenfield and Lee Emery were great.

To me the best part of the breakfast was the fellowship enjoyed as people lingered over their meals enjoying being together.

In the Know...

Emilia Earhart

Earhart was born on July 24, 1897, in Atchison, Kansas. Earhart spent much of her early childhood in the upper-middle-class household of her maternal grandparents.

At a Long Beach air show in 1920, Earhart took a plane ride that transformed her life. It was only 10 minutes, but when she landed she knew she had to learn to fly. Working at a variety of jobs, from photographer to truck driver, she earned enough money to take flying lessons from pioneer female aviator Anita "Neta" Snook. Earhart immersed herself in learning to fly. She read everything she could find on flying and spent much of her time at the airfield. She cropped her hair short, in the style of other women aviators. Worried what the other, more experienced pilots might think of her, she even slept in her new leather jacket for three nights to give it a more "worn" look.

Earhart's attempt to be the first person to circumnavigate the earth around the equator ultimately resulted in her disappearance on July 2, 1937. Earhart purchased a Lockheed Electra L-10E plane and pulled together a top-rated crew of three men: Captain Harry Manning, Fred Noonan and Paul Mantz. Manning, who had been the captain of the President Roosevelt, which brought Earhart back from Europe in 1928, would become Earhart's first navigator. Noonan, who had vast experience in both marine and flight navigation, was to be the second navigator. Mantz, a Hollywood stunt pilot, was chosen to be Earhart's technical advisor.

On the morning of July 2, 1937, at 7:20 AM, Earhart reported her position, placing the Electra on a course at 20 miles southwest of the Nukumanu Islands. At 7:42 AM, the Itasca picked up this message from the Earhart: "We must be on you, but we cannot see you. Fuel is running low. Been unable to reach you by radio. We are flying at 1,000 feet." The ship replied but there was no indication that Earhart heard this. The flyers' last communication was at 8:43 AM. Though the transmission was marked as "questionable," it is believed Earhart and Noonan thought they were running along the north, south line. However, Noonan's chart of Howland's position was off by five nautical miles. The Itasca released its oil burners in an attempt to signal the flyers, but they apparently did not see it. In all likelihood, their tanks ran out of fuel and they had to ditch at sea.
